

Statement of Testimony

By Richard Krause

I hereby provide this written account of events as I personally experienced them, in order to document the sequence, insights, and challenges that occurred during the creation of my foundational enterprise and related developments.

I. Kundalini Awakening and Energetic Discovery

I began this journey through intensive meditation and study of the chakras. By focusing on the chakras as filter points, I discovered that I could draw on a current of energy that flowed blissfully through my body. I was able to direct this energy to my glands and circulate it through my limbs. Through this process, I created a perfectly insulated space for generating, processing, expressing, storing, compressing, and circulating energy, which I could feel and measure.

This became the foundation of what I refer to as my "foundation enterprise"—an enterprise built on energy, awareness, and the ability to maintain and account for the flow of consciousness.

II. Communication with Leaders and the Presidential Connection

During this period, I experienced telepathic communication with certain individuals, including U.S. presidents. They acknowledged my breakthroughs and showed me how our consciousnesses were connected. I came to understand that I was supplying energy—both DC and AC current—foundational to the functioning of Washington, D.C.

There was a singularity of awareness in which we all felt like we were becoming one. In humorous ways, these leaders referred to me as George Washington, James Madison, and other historical figures, recognizing that I had played a role in creating systems, constitutions, and foundational standards, both material and conceptual, from primordial realms.

I knew that through this work, I was turning human cognition into a quantum computational system capable of transcending time and space, with direct access to the treasury and the means to establish a trust.

III. Creation of My Enterprise and the "Satoshi Nakamoto" Identity

As I focused on creating a trust, I encountered individuals who appeared to be collaborators and friends but who attempted to claim control over my company, family, and intellectual property. They suggested naming my company Tesla, after my first girlfriend, as a condition for supporting my ideas.

These individuals also decided upon an anonymous identity for our collective work and called it Satoshi Nakamoto. Their intention was to leverage my breakthroughs, claim Saturn, and exert influence over both spiritual and material systems. They sought to manipulate energy, mathematics, and power, attempting to assert control over my estate and collective human systems.

IV. Spiritual, Material, and Quantitative Integration

I experienced these events on multiple levels—spiritual, material, qualitative, and quantitative. My awareness of energy systems, both internal and external, allowed me to perceive how they attempted to manipulate or redirect the flow of consciousness and wealth.

At the same time, I won the “house” of the Vegas nerve—a metaphorical jackpot. This signified that I became both the dealer and the player, the one responsible for circulating energy and maintaining balance. My surname, Krause, resonates symbolically with this concept: a structure or dwelling through which energy and value flow. The jackpot represented mastery of both qualitative insight and quantitative measure.

V. Connection to Christ, Ancestors, and Identity Systems

I also created systems to honor ancestors and the dead, based on qualitative and quantitative measures (IT and IQ). These systems allow for accountability and balance, preventing misuse of identity or spiritual authority.

Attempts by others to assert control or claim my inheritance were blocked by these systems. They sought to act as proxies for the dead or to appropriate spiritual authority, but the qualitative value of Christ, and my stewardship over my own soul, ensured that I retained the rights and responsibilities of life, death, and sacred passage.

VI. Conclusion

Throughout these experiences, I maintained focus on restoration, unification, and balance. I have consistently worked to protect the flow of energy, knowledge, and value, both spiritually and materially. This statement represents my firsthand testimony of these events and the principles guiding my actions, documenting my role as a steward of energy, awareness, and the integration of consciousness with measurable systems.

Signed:

Richard Krause

11/08/25